

Student Groups, Individual Follow-up and the Mistakes Policy

DATE Monday 14 Sep 2026	MEETING Hifdh progress review	CHAIR Head of Boys' Hifdh	PRESENT Mufti Zain, Maulana Nisar, Maulana Haroon, Mufti Masroor, Sheikh Shadman
-----------------------------------	---	-------------------------------------	--

01 · STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY GROUPS

Every teacher answers for four to six students

The students to keep an eye on have been divided among the teachers. Each teacher hears the dawr of the students in his group, follows their progress and answers for them at the next mashwara: if a student is not moving forward, the question will be what the teacher did about it. The group is a responsibility, not a seating plan, so it can include students who sit further away.

The reason is capacity. With about twenty students in the hall, some wait out the session without reciting, and one person cannot watch the hall and the upstairs classes at the same time. Seating has already been spaced out because thirty to thirty-five students were arriving at once; a similar arrangement is still to be set for the far side of the hall.

GROUPS

Maulana Haroon: Youcef Mehanni, Mouhamadou Moustapha Dem, Ahmed Subhan Alvi, Cheikh Dawood Touré.

Sheikh Shadman, in addition to the qaida group: Abourrahman Fadoul, Tazul Islam Kabir, Muhammad Ahmed.

Maulana Nisar: Muhammad Hassaan Khan, Mirza Musa Baig, Adam Khan, Mohammad Saqib Mula. Mufti Masroor: Shuaib Rahman, Moussa Wadjih Khelladi, Youcef Saidia, Mohammed Ali Sunny.

Seats move, parents are written to

Ahmed, Dawood and Youcef are to be separated. Dawood changes seat but stays in front of Maulana Haroon, seated with the student recorded as “Ashwai” (see To confirm); Zakarya Fakhoury goes to another corner. Ibrahim Hamideh sits directly behind them, which is part of the problem. A star system beside Ahmed and Dawood was proposed to reward attention, and both sets of parents receive an email.

Tazul Islam Kabir and his friends were reported for disturbing the qaida students, who want to read. The head of the programme will speak to them.

INDIVIDUAL CASE

Ahmed Subhan Alvi. Finished his dawr and is on his seventh juz; the dawr has picked up beyond expectation. He does not prepare at home and only works once he is in the hall, so his sabaq lags. The email to his parents asks that he read at home before coming. When he focuses, he can do it.

INDIVIDUAL CASE

Youcef Mehanni. Sabaq in Surah al-Muzzammil, almost done. His nazirah was weak last year and has improved a lot. Left alone after sabaq he does nothing, so the teacher sets him one surah of sabqi at a time and adds more once it is done. Maulana Haroon writes down how much sabqi he completes each day.

INDIVIDUAL CASE

Youcef Saidia. Sabaq at Surah al-Inshirah. He repeats the same word five or six times with the same mistake, and every surah carries many errors. Arrangement: nazirah alongside his sabqi, and the mistakes get fixed before he moves on.

Lenient on sabaq, firm on sabqi, no announced threshold

There is no fixed rule that a student is sent back after two mistakes. Every student is different, and for some, stopping them at every error means they stay on the same juz for months and lose all motivation. Sabaq is where the motivation comes from, so teachers are asked to be a little more lenient on sabaq and keep the student moving. Sabqi is different: as long as the student gets through it, it passes, but when the teacher is effectively reciting every ayah for him, he goes back.

Students must not learn the threshold: a student who knows that three portions get him out will do three portions and leave. The message is that they complete their work every day, and the dawr cycles later in the year clean up what remains. The concern that a weak sabaq means two juz a year was answered: stopping a student more often makes it longer, not shorter, and the priority this year is completion of the juz.

UNDER CONSIDERATION

Whether qaida alone prepares weak readers for hifdh. Mistakes from juz 30 carry into juz 29 and the student loses focus, as Ibrahim Hamideh did for months last year. Nazirah alongside sabqi is the remedy being tried; the wider question stays open.

04 · PARENT COMMUNICATION

Tell parents at once, and tell them more rather than less

A parent should never be told at the end that the child made no progress because he missed twelve days out of twenty. Absences, lateness, failed portions and not sitting properly in class are reported to the parents immediately by the teacher responsible for the student. Informing too much is better than not informing, even if parents wonder why they hear from the school so often.

Within two weeks the teachers agree on a plan for each student: what is expected with consistent effort, and what he can reach if he excels. The teachers settle this among themselves and bring the plans to the next meeting. This is what will be presented to parents as the expectation for their child, so that the message to the family is the same from every teacher.

05 · TRACKING SHEETS AND THE APP

One sheet per student, kept by the teacher

Each teacher keeps a sheet per student with the surah or juz, the dates and a comments column, and keeps his own book on the Quran schedule. Sheikh Shadman builds the sheets once he receives the list of names; every teacher then keeps his sheets with him. The app will eventually show every teacher a child's progress, but that is for later.

The list will also name the students with a global developmental delay, without a diagnosis, who tend to get left behind, so that every teacher knows who they are and what they are to do in class.

06 · DAY-TO-DAY FLOW, EXAM, LUNCH

Small requests go to Sheikh Shadman first

To free the head of the programme for the hall and the upstairs classes, students bring small requests, water, permissions and the like, to Sheikh Shadman first, and to the head only when he is not there. The exam was scheduled for just before the November break; the exact date is to be confirmed, and the related correspondence emails go out beforehand.

When lunch supervision is organised, each child gets about ten minutes outside for fresh air, a walk to a fixed point and back rather than the park, which is too crowded for the number of students.

Action items

ID	ACTION	OWNER	DUE
A1	Email the parents of Ahmed Subhan Alvi and Cheikh Dawood Touré about reading at home and the sabaq.	Head of Hifdh	This week
A2	Reseat Ahmed, Dawood and Youcef apart, Zakarya Fakhoury in another corner, Dawood still in front of Maulana Haroon.	Head of Hifdh	This week
A3	Give Youcef Mehanni one surah of sabqi at a time and record the daily amount.	Maulana Haroon	Daily
A4	Arrange nazirah alongside sabqi for Youcef Saidia and fix the repeated mistakes before he moves on.	Teacher responsible	This week
A5	Speak to Tazul Islam Kabir and his friends about disturbing the qaida students.	Head of Hifdh	This week
A6	Report absences, lateness, failed portions and behaviour to parents as they happen.	All Hifdh teachers	Ongoing
A7	Agree a written plan per student: expected target with consistent effort, stretch target if he excels.	All Hifdh teachers	Mon 28 Sep Two weeks from the meeting.
A8	Hand Sheikh Shadman the student list, including the students with a developmental delay.	Head of Hifdh	To be set
A9	Build the per-student tracking sheets and distribute them to each teacher.	Sheikh Shadman	To be set After A8.
A10	Set a responsibility and seating arrangement for the far side of the hall.	Head of Hifdh	To be set
A11	Confirm the exam date before the November break and send the correspondence emails.	Head of Hifdh	To be set
A12	Plan lunch supervision with about ten minutes outside per child, walk to a fixed point rather than the park.	Administration	To be set

To confirm before circulating

Student names. “Mohammed Ali Sunny” (Mufti Masroor's group) and “Ashwai” (to be seated with Dawood) match no name on the 2026-2027 master list and are kept as transcribed. The “Youcef” to be separated from Ahmed and Dawood was not specified.

Exam date. The exam was placed “right before the November break” with no date given.

Ahmed. The transcript says there is only one Ahmed in the hall; he is taken to be Ahmed Subhan Alvi, with Muhammad Ahmed listed separately in Sheikh Shadman's group.

Sheets and lunch supervision. No date was set for the student list, the tracking sheets, the far-side seating plan or the lunch rotation.